a culture of care

Our philosophy of care
enables care partner teams to nurture the human spirit & strive to create life worth living.

"An Elder is someone who, by virtue of life experience, is here to teach us how to live."

— The Eden Alternative

Well-being is the path to a life worth living.

Seven Domains of Well-Being

Together, they serve as a simple framework for asking thoughtful questions that help identify the unmet needs of those we care for:

- IDENTITY – being well-known; having personhood; individuality; having a history
- GROWTH – development; enrichment; expanding; evolving
- AUTONOMY – liberty; self-determination; choice; freedom
- SECURITY – freedom from doubt, anxiety, or fear; safety; privacy; dignity; respect
- CONNECTEDNESS – belonging; engaged; involved; connected to time, place, and nature
- MEANING – significance; heart; hope; value; purpose; sacredness
- JOY – happiness; pleasure; delight; contentment; enjoyment

No matter our age or our level of physical wellness, fulfillment of these domains is what we all need for ourselves and our loved ones to experience contentment.

Every person has a voice—an opportunity to contribute to this community.

— Eden Families —

All residents and employees belong to an Eden Family. Since our community is comprised of nearly 500 residents and more than 500 employees, it can be extremely difficult to get to know everyone! Being part of an Eden Family gives each of our care partners a manageable group of people to get to know and with whom to celebrate, support and build meaningful relationships.

In a culture that typically views aging as a period of decline, St. Paul's Senior Living Community follows a philosophy of care that asserts that no matter how old we are or what challenges we live with, life is about continuing to grow. Care is not a one-way street, but rather a collaborative partnership.

Our residents and staff are described as “care partners,” each an active participant in the balance of giving and receiving care. Together, our care partner teams strive to enhance well-being by eliminating the three plagues of the human spirit: loneliness, helplessness, and boredom.

Loneliness is the pain we feel when we want companionship and meaningful relationships with others but do not have that. Loving companionship and taking the time to build meaningful relationships between residents and staff is the antidote to loneliness.

Helplessness is the pain we feel when we only receive care but do not have an opportunity to give care. To combat helplessness, our care partner teams do just that: care for each other.

Boredom is the pain we feel when our lives lack variety and spontaneity. Care partners create an environment in which fun surprises and spur of the moment interactions and activities can take place.
