

Community Impact Grant Report 2022

Washington County Community Foundation

*"Helping You Give . . .
Close to Home"*

Supporting Strategic Growth

The Washington County Community Foundation awarded an incredible $3.6 million in grants in 2022! Although the majority of the Foundation's distributions are donor-directed, an increase in discretionary support has enabled us to host more significant competitive cycles that are addressing critical needs at critical times.

In recent years, the Foundation has adopted a capacity-building focus in an effort to help our local charities to strengthen their organizations and grow in a strategic way. As each nonprofit is unique, the next step forward can mean something different for each applicant. So, our approach is quite broad. The WCCF defines "capacity-building" as any activity that increases the nonprofit's operational, programmatic, financial, or organizational maturity. Not only has the Foundation fully embraced the concept of capacity-building, but now our donors are thinking this way too.

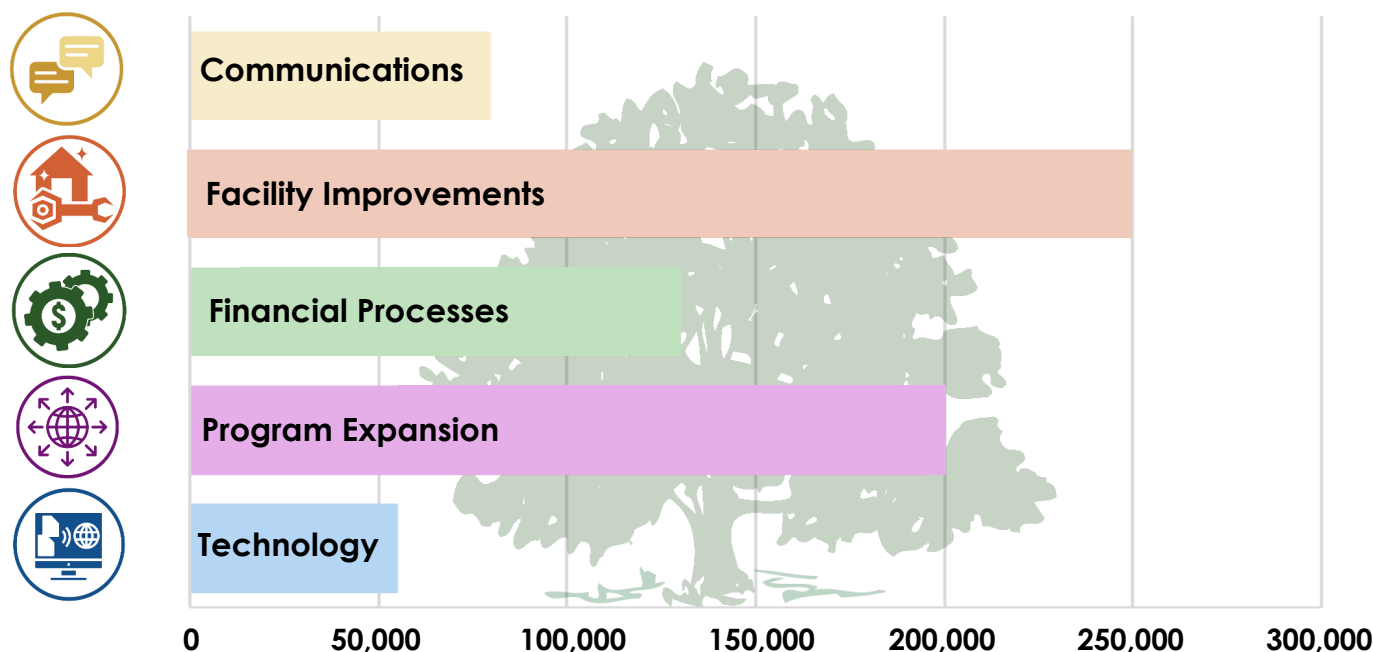

As a result, the WCCF awarded a total of $715,000 in capacity-building grants to 25 organizations in 2022.

The grants, which were issued from a variety of component funds and ranged from $5,000 to $100,000, supported facility improvements, program expansions, communications, financial process improvements, and new technology. Readers may learn more about the organizations that received this support through the vibrant Capacity-Building Focus sections featured throughout this publication.

Unveiling a New Approach to Assessing Community Needs & Assets

Community Snapshot

A FRESH PERSPECTIVE ON WASHINGTON COUNTY

We know Washington County is a vibrant and dynamic community with a rich past and a promising future. But, wouldn't it be helpful to have a better understanding of the factors that contribute to the current quality of life, as well as what is needed to address our unique, and ever-changing, needs?

The Washington County Community Foundation is taking steps to initiate a first-of-its-kind, interactive community needs and assets resource called Community Snapshot.

engagement with donors, community leaders, and nonprofit partners. The survey results were abundantly clear — our constituents are looking to the Foundation to lead the effort to assess community needs and help identify the nonprofits working to address those needs.

The Community Snapshot project will provide an easy-to-use web-based resource for local leaders, donors, friends, and neighbors to examine our community through different lenses. Visitors will get a panoramic view of our community's overall needs through concise narratives on eight broad focus areas, or they can zoom into the current, most pressing needs of a particular nonprofit serving our area.

As the Community Snapshot project gains momentum, more nonprofits will be added to the site. So, visitors are encouraged to return regularly — new content has the potential to deliver a fresh perspective.

We are excited to begin this journey, and we hope that you are looking forward to seeing Washington County in an entirely new way!

LAUNCHING SPRING 2023

In-Kind Technology Donation Keeps the Literacy Council Connected

The Literacy Council has been operating since 1985; however, it has experienced explosive growth in recent years with a significant influx of immigrants into its service area that includes Washington, Greene, Fayette and Westmoreland counties. The majority of the immigrants are from Haiti, China, Afghanistan, and Ukraine, and many were accomplished professionals in their home countries. But in order for them to resume their professional careers in the USA, they must first learn to speak English.

At the start of the pandemic in 2020, the WCCF awarded a $20,000 grant to the Literacy Council of Southwestern Pennsylvania from the Close to Home Disaster and Emergency Fund to initiate a remote English as a Second Language (ESL) program. The grant enabled the Literacy Council to purchase computer tablets for students so that their learning could continue remotely, and the program became a great success.

During the 2022 holiday season, the WCCF donated 35 gently-used computer tablets to the Literacy Council, knowing its ESL students would be better served with the technology. The tablets were personally delivered by members of the Foundation's Allocations & Programs Committee to the Literacy Council's Washington location in Fairhill Manor Church.

In addition to its ESL program, the Literacy Council provides Citizenship Preparatory Classes, General Equivalency Diploma Preparatory Classes, a Baby Book Bag program, and other literacy-related services at no cost. To learn more or to make a contribution to support the Literacy Council's work, visit www.lcswpa.org.

“The remote ESL program has been very successful not only during the height of the pandemic when in-person sessions were not possible, but on an on-going basis. The remote option has increased the number of participants in the overall ESL program, particularly for those struggling with transportation and/or child care. Since we no longer intend to use the tablets at the WCCF, this was a perfect opportunity to follow up an impactful monetary grant with an in-kind grant. And the delivery of the tablets provided the opportunity for committee members who help screen grant applicants to see first-hand the significant impact of the Council’s programming.”

Technology

Capacity-Building Focus: Technology grants were issued to four organizations in 2022.

The Pennsylvania Trolley Museum received $25,000 for new software to enhance its data management capabilities. Receiving grants of $10,000 each to purchase computer equipment for clients and/or employees were AMI, the Center for Community Resources, and Watchful Shepherd.

Capacity-Building Focus: Grants awarded for program expansion represented the second highest total for the 2022 cycle.

Among the awards, InVision Human Services received $10,000 for autism sensory items. Southwestern Pennsylvania Legal Aid will use its $50,000 grant to secure the staffing needed to initiate a driver's license suspension advocacy program that will benefit both workers and businesses in Washington County. A $50,000 grant will enable the Thomas Campbell Apartments to expand its outdoor programming by converting five wooded acres into a walking trail and outdoor recreation space for residents. California Area School District received $10,000 to provide elementary school students with agricultural learning opportunities. The Special Olympics of Pennsylvania received $5,000 to develop programs in Washington County. A $25,000 grant to the Washington Hospital Foundation will support a new retention program for nurses. Angel Ridge Animal Rescue will use its $25,000 award towards the purchase of an animal rescue van. Finally, the Washington County Gay Straight Alliance received $25,000 for a three-year plan for its first paid employee.

Program Expansion

Financial Processes

Capacity-Building Focus: Three grants were awarded to improve financial processes.

The awards included a $100,000 grant to CASA for Kids to collateralize a line of credit, $20,000 to Strive for a Better Tomorrow to purchase accounting software and services, and $10,000 to the Venetia Heritage Society for accounting and communications software.

Facility

Improvements

Capacity-Building Focus: The majority of the capacity-building grants awarded in 2022 were designated for facility improvements.

Among the awards was a first-time grant of $25,000 to the Ginger Hill Grange for a new floor in its facility, which was built in 1913. The Salvation Army will use its $50,000 grant to renovate the kitchen in its Donora facility which is used for a variety of food distribution programs in the Mon Valley. Washington Hospital Foundation received $100,000 for its relocation project. A $50,000 grant to Food Helpers will enable an expansion of its warehouse in Brownsville. And, California Area Public Library received $25,000 to restore its historic yellow brick patio.

A Capacity for Communication: $80,000 in Capacity-Building Grants Helps Charities to Connect

A website is often a non-profit's most powerful tool when it comes to engaging with potential clients, donors, and volunteers. It can increase the non-profit's visibility, allowing it to reach a wider audience. A good website can also help make the non-profit more accessible to anyone, anywhere. This can be especially important when the non-profit serves a particular community or demographic that would only be able to interact with them digitally. This accessibility also establishes a non-profit's credibility with its audience. It can provide visitors with important information about the organization's mission, goals, and accomplishments, while demonstrating that the organization is professional and trustworthy. Most importantly, a website can be the most effective means that a non-profit can use to communicate with its clients, patrons, and supporters. A non-profit can share updates and news, and keep engaged with their audience via blog posts, newsletters, and social media integration.

That's why the WCCF was especially excited to award a total of $80,000 during last year's capacity-building grant cycle for nonprofits to improve their communications.

Connect's new website will make its services more accessible to visitors who are in need of the non-profit's assistance.

Connect, an agency which provides a full continuum of care to homeless, near-homeless, and low income individuals, children and families in Washington, Greene and Westmoreland Counties, was awarded $10,000 for a new website.

Melissa Marini, Program Quality Manager for Connect, remarked, "Funding Connect's proposed website project will allow Connect to continue to create lasting impact and positive change within the local community of Washington County by reducing barriers to accessing services, facilitate fundraising efforts, and increase awareness."

Another $10,000 website grant was awarded to the Frank Sarris Public Library, which provides service for the Borough of Canonsburg, Cecil Township, and North Strabane Township as well as the nine schools comprising the Canon-McMillan School District.

"A key goal of this grant is to redesign our website so library staff can fully control our overall web content," said Peggy Tseng, the library's Executive Director. "As such, we will be able to offer additional methods of communication to all library users and potential donors including a monthly online newsletter, fundraising announcements, and daily library updates."

The Southwestern Area Agency on Aging also

A new website for the Frank Sarris Public Library will allow its staff to have more control over its web content.

received a $10,000 website grant. Its work focuses on promoting the wellbeing of older adults through a planned, coordinated, and collaborative program of health and social services.

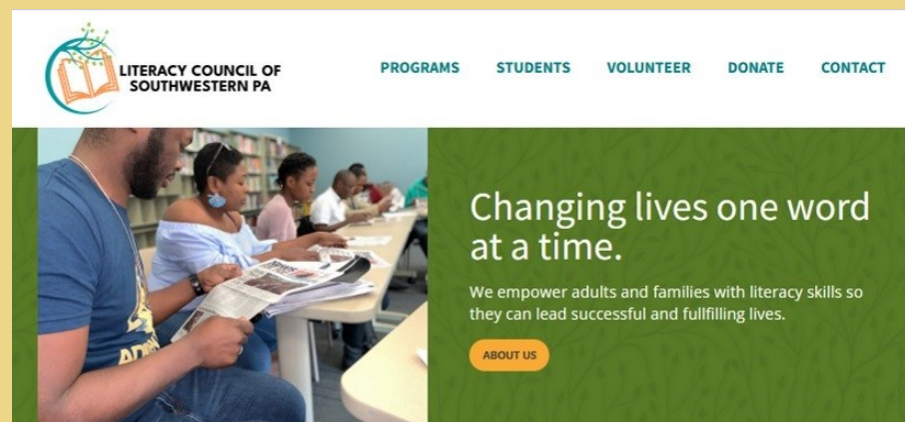

A new website for the SWPA Area Agency on Aging will help local seniors stay connected to the Agency's services.

Mary Harris, the Agency's Director of Long-Term Care discussed the grant's importance. "Most adults prefer to remain in their own homes as they age but often find that they need assistance staying active, maintaining their health and wellbeing, or making social connections. Our agency would like to ensure that any older adult in need knows how and where to get help. The agency's website is a vital part of that communication strategy."

The Literacy Council of Southwestern PA, with a mission to empower adults and families with literacy skills that enable them to lead successful, fulfilled lives as members of our community, was awarded a $25,000 grant for a complete marketing rebrand, including a new website. "We believe we can grow our volunteers, students, and donors with a new website, marketing plan, and logo," said Lauren Piszczor, the Literacy Council's Program Manager.

And a $25,000 grant for tents, signage, and a new website was awarded to the Bradford House Historical Association, which will help with their mission to preserve and promote the history and heritage of the Bradford House Museum and to educate the public on the role of David Bradford and the Whiskey Rebellion in shaping American history.

Bradford House Executive Director Tracie Liberatore explained, "Over the last five years, everything we have done as an organization was steps towards professionalism and credibility. This new website will clearly communicate quality information that reflects our mission. The website will stand out and show the world that we are more than a museum. . . . We are a destination!"

A bold, new re-brand for the Literacy Council!

All five organizations that received a capacity-building website grant from this most recent cycle will also benefit from ongoing technical support and training as a member of the WCCF Website Cohort, a local network of charity representatives who all utilize the same website content management system.

Great care has been taken to ensure the accuracy of this publication. However, if we have omitted or inaccurately listed any information, please accept our most sincere apologies. The grant totals represent the sum of all awards recorded for each charity during the most recently completed financial year. In some cases, a charity's grant total may include a prior-period adjustment. Additionally, some fund names and grantee names have been abbreviated for spacing.
